

Dear Executives,

safety and health of your employees is a major concern and responsibility of your role as a leader.

Attached you will find an information package about your duties in occupational safety and health, which has been compiled on our behalf by the Safety and Radiation Protection Department.

This package is for your information and should explain your special responsibility, which you have assumed as a leader for your employees. It should provide you with the reference information needed to correctly fulfill the tasks related to the safety and health of your employees.

At this point we would like to point out that this is not a transfer of additional duties or tasks. This text is simply meant to help you by providing in one single document and in clear form the relevant existing regulations.

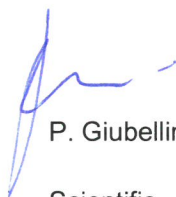

In the third quarter of 2019, the Safety and Radiation Protection Department will offer several information events in which your individual duties will be explained in detail. Furthermore contact persons, who will support you in the various topics will be introduced to you. We recommend you to take one of these appointments.

Thank you very much.
